

NCR S339 and S4800 Server

Back-Office Servers

Looking for non-stop reliability with life longevity and high performance?

YES

The NCR S339 and S4800 servers are the latest fit-for-purpose and reliable back office systems that support and maximize an operator's long-term investment by securely storing important sales, inventory and system configuration data. This hardware is a cost-effective and powerful tool that exceeds the demands required of your business. The NCR S339 and S4800 servers combine the best of traditional point-of-sale functionality with the open architecture and investment protection of industry standard PC technology.

- Receive high performance and long life

The NCR S339 and S4800 is built with Intel® components, durable and fast hard drives or solid-state drives, robust power supplies and advanced cooling technology giving it high performance capabilities and lifespan longevity.

- Operate efficiently with security

Our reliable server can give you the peace of mind to ensure that end-of-day operations run smoothly and that data is always securely backed up.

- Rely on one voice, one support source

With our field services team, you can benefit from the ongoing support and fast return to service. You will always have one number to call, avoiding the hassle of dealing with multiple third party providers for one issue.

- Reduce total cost of ownership

With a reliable back office solution, the NCR S339 and S4800 minimize maintenance and support costs. Leverage industry standard components to extend the longevity of your technology investment.
